Hudson named PERS Internal Auditor

Terri Hudson, of Madison, has been named the internal auditor for the Public Employees' Retirement System of Mississippi (PERS).

Hudson earned her bachelor's in accounting and her Masters of Accountancy from the University of Mississippi. She previously worked as the vice president of Institutional Planning and Assessment at Millsaps College, as vice president of Public Finance at Stephens, Inc., and as special assistant to the executive director, deputy director, and chief financial officer at the Mississippi Development Authority.

As internal auditor, Hudson will be responsible for conducting independent, protective, and constructive audits in addition to reviewing effectiveness of controls, financial records, and operations. This position is also responsible for planning an organized system of continuous, periodic, and special audits within PERS; as well as evaluating internal controls within the agency.
